

Corporate Commercial contracts Services for entrepreneurs

BACKGROUND

Whether you are starting your own business for the first time or are a serial entrepreneur, the challenges of getting a new product or service to market are immense.

Limited finances frequently drive young companies to bring products to market as soon as possible. Perceived lack of negotiating power can make signing agreements established companies place in front of an entrepreneur seem an attractive option. However this can often store up problems for the future.

For example, a third party design agency may end up retaining crucial intellectual property rights in a key product or certain important manufacturing rights may be signed away in the small print of a contract entered into early in a company's existence.

This can give investors cold feet and can be a nasty surprise for owner-managers looking for an exit.

BENEFITS

Our team can help guide you through these risks, as well as pointing you towards free sources of advice. We offer the same quality advice to entrepreneurs as we do to major multinationals.

We can perform fixed fee high-level contract reviews to make you aware of risks or issues before committing to a significant contract.

We can also review agreements and prepare a variety of standard documents on a fixed fee basis. See our Commercial Contracts Fixed Price Menu overleaf for details.
